quoits, an Aussie staple

Your quoits set is built to last

Unlike others, your quoits set is crafted from a single piece of solid beechwood and has a turned wooden thread which screws firmly into the block without the need for cheap metal screws or fixtures. This means that it will never wobble or come loose over time. It is finished in a clear varnish to beautify and protect the timber. The six traditional and chunky quoits have steel ring centres and are weighty so as to provide better feel and control with each throw. Your premium quoits set should be kept dry and out of the weather when not in use.

An ancient classic

Loved the world over, and particularly in Australia, quoits is believed to have origins with the ancient Greeks. As a game of great skill, quoits involves setting the block and peg back 2.7 metres and outscoring your opponents by tossing the six quoit rings and landing them over the peg. Quoits can be played by two or more players and is the perfect way to break the ice at social gatherings or have a few laughs with family and friends. Quoit tournaments are played with each player having a minimum of six throws on their first turn and scoring one point for each successful throw. Thereafter and on each subsequent turn, players throw just one quoit but earn the right to toss another quoit on that turn if their previous throw was successful. The winner is the first player to achieve the agreed target score.
